LA SALLE COUNCIL MEETING

The regular meeting of the La Salle Council was held in the townhall on Monday, August 17th. Members of the council present were Mayor Herbert Rundstedler, Mr. Leon Martin, Mr. Gordon Reame, Mr. Jack Trotter, Mr. Ed Lovell, and the assistant town clerk, Mr. Ted Seewald. Mr. Ted Clarke was absent.

Mr. and Mrs. Albem Beneveau made application to build on property which they are purchasing from Dr. A. Jung.

Dr. A. Jung informed the council that he was no longer interested in sub-dividing the Bezaire Development. He has wasted seven months and his intentions are to sell it as a parcel of farm land. Dr. Jung complained of not being able to obtain satisfactory service from the townhall and requested that the council look into this matter.

Dr. Jung also discussed the Sunnyside Development, the development near the golf course. Mayor Rundstedler read an agreement which Dr. Jung would have to sign before the sale of this property could be made to the Sunnyside Development Co., Ltd., at a price of $8,300. Dr. Jung was to contact solicitor E. Zeron regarding the signing of this agreement.

Mr. Donolon Lebert made application to build on Lot No. 12, Bolamier Street.

Tasty Tidbit

PETER THE SECOND, the Bronx Zoo's replacement for its famous hippopotamus, Peter the Great, accepts a morsel of food from a keeper shortly after his arrival in New York. Less than a year old, little Peter weighs under 300 pounds and was obtained from an animal dealer on a trial basis to test his amiability and appetite. Peter the Great, a 4,000-pounder, died last February at the record age of almost 50 years.

Out in Front

Marlene Stewart, the darling of Fonthill, Ont., takes a few practice swings with her trusty putter before going out to win the Canadian Women's closed championships at London, Ont.

Red Tank Stands Guard

Protest strikers are blazing anew in East Germany as Communist troops and police hold off the hungry workers at gun point from the free food being distributed in West Berlin. Tanks placed at strategic positions are typical of the weapons of terror being brought into 222 by the Reds. This giant is on guard against open rebellion in the market square in Leipzig, where hundreds of workers were forced to give up free food packages obtained at relief centres in West Berlin.

SANDWICH WEST COUNCIL MEETING

The regular meeting of the Sandwich West Council took place Tuesday evening, August 18th, in the town hall.

A meeting is to be held with the bus lines to re-route the buses in order to take the children into high school in Windsor.

The township recently purchased an asphalt distributor for road surfacing. They have already surfaced approximately eight miles throughout the township.

An advertisement will be made for a half-ton panel truck to satisfy the needs of the water department.

A children's playground is much needed in the Grand Marais Road area. A meeting will be taking place with regards to making arrangements for such a playground.

Avoid Overweight By Eating Bigger Breakfast

Illogical as it sounds, skimpy breakfasts may be a cause of fatness, and the practice of eating bigger breakfasts may keep you thin, states an article in the September Reader's Digest.

Breakfast is the most important meal, the Digest says. Fruit juice, cereal with milk, an egg and bacon, toast and coffee, will add fewer pounds in the long run than a breakfast of only coffee and sweet rolls. While the larger breakfast contains roughly 200 more calories, it will carry you over with no mid-morning snack and less desire for a big lunch or dinner. Protein content is the answer: 17 grams in the larger meal and only 4 in the other.

When the sugar level of our blood rises to a certain point we no longer feel hungry, the article points out. As we expand energy, the sugar level drops and we are hungry again.

Carbohydrate foods, such as coffee with sugar, and rolls, raise the blood level abruptly. They are "quick energy foods".

But this energy is soon used up and hunger begins again. Proteins also raise the sugar level, but they hold it above the hunger mark far longer. Since fats slow down the rate at which carbohydrates and proteins are digested, they too help maintain a more constant blood-sugar level.

The man who starts his workday with only coffee and rolls will feel hungry by mid-morning, and will want to go out for "doughnuts and coffee" to tide him over until lunch. Hungry again, he will eat a larger lunch than if he had had a substantial, high-protein breakfast. By the end of the day he will have consumed far more calories than if he had eaten the heartier breakfast.

Those who cannot face a big breakfast can work up a breakfast appetite by taking moderate exercise before this meal, the Digest advises.

Going on a picnic? When you remove the sandwiches from the refrigerator, wrap them in aluminum household foil, and pack in a box with dry or natural ice. The foil will help to keep them fresh and tasty.

Little-Known Facts

The winds inside the spiral of a tornado, often reaching 500 miles an hour, produce some seemingly supernatural results. Blades of grass are blown into fence posts; straws are driven into tree trunks to the depth of an inch; the suction of the tornado funnel strips the feathers from chickens and drains the water from wells.—Reader's Digest.

The Maoris of New Zealand were cannibals at the time the first European settlers arrived. Their cannibalism, however, was "ceremonial" only, that is, exclusively associated with tribal rituals. The Maoris even had a disparaging word—"kaitangato"—to describe any one who indulged his taste for leg of man on non-ceremonial occasions.—Reader's Digest.

Does it pay to be tall? A survey of 1037 professional men disclosed that bishops averaged 5'10½" compared to 5'8¾" for rural preachers. Presidents of large universities measured 5'10¾" as against 5'9½" for heads of small colleges; city school superintendents, 5'10½"; small-town principals, 5'9¾"; sales managers, 5'10", salesmen, 5'9". Life insurance policies averaged $2,979 for men 5 feet tall, and increased steadily, for men of taller stature, to an average of $6,180 for 6'4" giants. "Brilliant exceptions" to the rule, however, are noted.

THREE STEPS TO PERSONAL PEACE

"Few of us realize how accelerated the rate of our lives has become, or the speed at which we are driving ourselves," writes Dr. Norman Vincent Peale in the September Reader's Digest. Dr. Peale, a well-known minister and author of several books on self-help, contends that "men and women are destroying their bodies by this pace—and, what is more tragic, their minds and souls as well."

Everyone should insist on not less than a quarter-hour of absolute quiet every 24 hours. To achieve complete detachment, Dr. Peale says, "Go alone into the quietest place available and sit or lie down for 15 minutes. Do not talk to anyone. Do not read. Think as little as possible."

Emotional control, though difficult at first, may be developed by working at it regularly and persistently. "The secret is to keep the mind quiet, avoid all hasty reactions, keep the tempo down."

The Digest article offers three rules for the achievement of personal peace, based on a "formula" used by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, famous aviator.

First, collapse physically. Let go every muscle in the body. Form a mental picture of a huge burlap bag of potatoes. Then mentally cut the bag, allowing the potatoes to roll out. Think of yourself as the bag. What is more relaxed than an empty burlap bag?

Second, drain the mind of all irritation, resentment, disappointment. "To do so, think of the most beautiful and peaceful scenes you know—a mountain at sunset, a valley in the hush of early morning, a lake by moonlight."

Third, turn the mind to God. "At least three times a day 'lift up your eyes unto the hills.'"

THE MENACE OF "MOPES" ON THE HIGHWAY

The highway slowpoke—the "mope" who drives 30 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone, holding up a long line of cars behind him—is almost as dangerous as the speeder, says the September Reader's Digest. "Safety-minded and usually law-abiding drivers are often goaded into taking desperate chances to get ahead of the roadblock caused by the mope. Seldom involved in an accident himself, the mope is the primary cause of some 20 percent of all head-on automobile fatalities."

Despite the accident potential the slow driver creates, his menace is still considered passive rather than active by courts and insurance companies. Usually he believes himself to be a very safe driver and would be astonished to realize that he is more often a factor in causing accidents.

Automobile associations and highway officials, however, have become acutely mope-conscious. Although federal laws do not forbid slow driving, some provinces and cities have passed acts which permit the police to direct cars off the road or to step up speed when they are impeding traffic.

Highway police are discouraged from enforcing the minimum speed laws because of the lenient treatment accorded mopeds in most courts. But some areas in the United States are beginning to crack down on the slow driver. In New York, the "creeper" may be charged with reckless driving. New Hampshire patrolmen frequently order the mope to the side of the road and hold him there, after a stern reprimand, until the traffic he has blocked behind him has passed.

Such action, even in a few places, indicates that the mope is at last being recognized for what he is—death behind the wheel of a slow car.

Nanga Parbat, the "Naked Lady" of the Himalayas, is classed by the National Geographic Society of Washington as the seventh highest mountain in the world and has claimed the lives of 31 European climbers and guides—more than any other Himalaya peak. Buhl is a member of a German-Austrian climbing team.
